Reasons for Allowance

The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance:

Regarding the claimed terms, the Examiner notes that a "general term must be understood in the context in which the inventor presents it." In re Glaug 283 F.3d 1335, 1340, 62 USPQ2d 1151, 1154 (Fed. Cir. 2002). Therefore the Examiner must interpret the claimed terms as found on pages 1- 49 of the specification. Clearly almost all the general terms in the claims may have multiple meanings. So where a claim term "is susceptible to various meanings, . . . the inventor's lexicography must prevail" Id. Using these definitions for the claims, the claimed invention was not reasonably found in the prior art.

The closest prior art of record is 2003/0005135 to Inoue et al. ("Inoue").

Inoue teaches a rights management server that manages usage of a content on a parent terminal and a child terminal. Inoue taken either individually or in combination with other prior art of record fails to teach or suggest at least determining whether said second license information is of an add attribute or overwrite attribute based on the usage right type information included in the second license information and combining or overwriting a part or all of said first license information with the second license information on the basis of a result of the determining as recited in independent claims 1, 9, and 15. Moreover, the missing claimed element from Inoue is not found in a reasonable number of reference(s). Yet even if the missing claimed element was found in a reasonable number of references, a person of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made would not have been motivated to include this missing element into the embodiments of Inoue.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure:

- “Digital Rights Management (DRM) Architectures” to Iannella.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled “Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance.”
